Risk Perceptions and Pleasure Travel : An Exploratory Analysis
Roehl, Wesley S.; Fesenmaier, Daniel R.
Journal of Travel Research v30n4 PP: 17-26 Spring 1992 ISSN: 0047-2875
JRNL CODE: JTR
WORD COUNT: 6263

ABSTRACT: International travelers have become attractive targets for terrorists. While not all risks or uncertainties associated with pleasure travel are as serious as terrorism, the very nature of the travel experience often generates uncertainty. Because more of the travel experience relies on services that are intangible, travelers' perceived risk is likely to be high. A study developed a typology of risk-related attitudes and evaluated the relationship between these attitudes and various aspects of pleasure travel. Psychophysical scaling methods and multivariate analysis identified 3 basic dimensions of perceived risk: 1. physical-equipment, 2. vacation, and 3. destination. Subsequent cluster analysis of the respondents identified 3 groups of travelers with substantially different risk perceptions about travel. There were differences in terms of the most recent trip taken, benefits sought from travel, and basic demographic characteristics. Relationships between risk perceptions and travel behavior appear to be situation-specific.

AOL Canada Inc. and Travelocity.ca announce content and commerce alliance
CANADA NEWSWIRE

March 19, 2002

JOURNAL CODE: WCNW LANGUAGE: English RECORD TYPE: FULLTEXT

WORD COUNT: 744

Travelocity.ca to be Preferred Travel Services Provider for Netscape.ca TORONTO, March 19 /CNW/ - Travelocity.ca and AOL Canada Inc., today announced an expanded multi-year alliance which will make Travelocity.ca the exclusive online consumer provider of travel services, such as air travel, hotel and car reservations for Netscape.ca, an AOL Canada Inc. web property. This agreement builds on an existing successful US commerce and content alliance between AOL Inc. and Travelocity.com LP in which Travelocity.com is the exclusive reservations engine integrated into the AOL service, AOL.COM, CompuServe, Digital City and Netscape. The 2001 AOL Canada/Roper Starch Cyberstudy showed that one-third (32%) of online consumers in Canada make online travel reservations. Travelocity.ca will make online travel reservations an easy-to-use process by providing Netscape.ca users with a one-stop solution for their leisure and business travel needs, backed by Travelocity.ca's sophisticated reservations system, which simplifies and integrates online booking, extensive travel content, and numerous new trip-planning tools. This agreement with Travelocity.ca will significantly enhance Netscape.ca's travel destination site by adding new services provided by Travelocity.ca. Along with the product depth available through Travelocity.ca, Netscape.ca users will also have access to industry-first travel reservation services, such as the Best Fare Finder tool and airline seat maps; straightforward Canadian dollar pricing; and 24-hour bilingual customer service and support. The two companies will also engage in online and offline cross-promotion, and Travelocity.com will make special offers to Netscape.ca users through this agreement. "With this new relationship, Netscape.ca users will have access to over 700 airlines, more than 50,000 hotels, more than 50 rental car companies and reservation capabilities with Canada's national railway, VIA Rail," said Scott Loving, General Manager, Travelocity.ca. "Netscape.ca users can also take advantage of our flexible functionality that allows for simple planning, pricing and buying online." "People are now planning and booking their travel online more than ever," said Steven McArthur, President and CEO of AOL Canada Inc. "Extending our relationship with Travelocity.ca to include Netscape.ca will create the ultimate destination for consumers interested in browsing, planning, booking, or sharing information on travel --and a valuable resource for advertisers and smart marketers interested in reaching those consumers." Travelocity.ca provides AOL Canada Travel with a wide range of services including: A low fare search feature - Netscape.ca users are able to search up to 700 airlines for the best fares to any worldwide destination and buy low-fare tickets online via an easy-to-read calendar that displays the dates the fares are offered. Airline seat maps - Netscape.ca users can view airline-specific seat maps online and reserve a seat during the ticket buying process. Seat maps are available among fifteen airlines including Air Canada. A hotel proximity search page - Netscape.ca users members have the ability to search and buy from more than 50,000 hotels and view lodging options by proximity to a specific point of interest. Car Rentals - Netscape.ca users can choose from among 50 car rental companies when planning travel, including the ability to rent based on personal preferences including price and availability of special features such as car phones or even child seats. Multiple profiles - For easy travel management, Netscape.ca users can save and maintain up to seven travel profiles, helping members maintain both personal and business travel accounts. About Travelocity.ca Travelocity.ca, the online travel expert, provides reservations capabilities for more than 700 airlines, more than 50,000 hotels, more than 50 car rental companies, direct booking for VIA Rail and hundreds of vacation packages. This reservations capability is paired with access to a vast database of destination and interest information. To date, Travelocity.com Inc. (NASDAQ: TVLY) has sold more than 20 million airline tickets and has more than 32 million members. About AOL Canada Inc. AOL Canada Inc. is a strategic alliance between America Online, Inc., the world's leader in interactive services and RBC Royal Bank, the personal and commercial banking division of RBC Financial Group, Canada's premier global financial services group. The company operates two interactive online services tailored to the Canadian marketplace, AOL(R) English and French service, and CompuServe(R) as well as several leading Internet brands including AOL.CA(TM), AOL Canada Search(TM) and AOL Instant Messenger(TM). Working with its more than 80 content and e-commerce providers, AOL offers Canadian consumers and families value, ease-of-use and convenience through state-of-the-art features. AOL is a registered trademark of America Online, Inc.

ABSTRACT: Five comprehensive online services are evaluated to determine how well they perform on seven basic business tasks. Services examined include America Online, Prodigy, Delphi, Compuserve and GENie. Each was used to book a flight, search for news and articles, send a fax, download a file, get a stock quote, obtain support from Microsoft and search for members with similar interests. Compuserve is rated best for booking a flight, searching for articles, getting support from Microsoft. However, the service's extensive command structure can be hard to navigate and it also can be quite costly. America Online is best for downloading a file, sending a fax and searching for members. However, the service could be improved by adding more depth to its financial information. Prodigy is noted for getting stock quotes, but it is very slow.

New Loyalty Program, More Low-Fare Tools, Branded Vacations Product, Expanded

Values Among New Features

NEW YORK, April 3 /PRNewswire/ -- To celebrate its first five years as the ultimate travel shopping and buying Internet site, Travelocity.com
Inc. (Nasdaq: TVLY) reinforced its leadership position with the announcement of five new innovations. These enhancements include: 1) GoodBuy, which expands upon the already successful Value program, 2) Travelocity Preferred Traveler, a travel club designed for the online traveler that includes perks and discounts worldwide, 3) an online Travelocity Vacations brand, 4) Option Finder, which advises members about alternate dates and cities where lower fares may be available, and 5) the

Travelocity.com World MasterCard. (Photo: <http://www.newscom.com/cgi-bin/prnh/20010403/DATU061-a> <http://www.newscom.com/cgi-bin/prnh/20010403/DATU061-b> <http://www.newscom.com/cgi-bin/prnh/20010403/DATU061-c> <http://www.newscom.com/cgi-bin/prnh/20010403/DATU061-d>)

"We are very excited to be celebrating five years of successful business on the Internet and once again be providing our customers with innovative product offerings designed to make their travel shopping experience easy and fun," said Terrell B. Jones, president and chief executive officer of Travelocity(R). "In the next five years, Travelocity plans to continue leading the online travel industry -- which is expected to grow to $33 billion by 2005 -- with our unparalleled combination of a powerful shopping system, large membership database, strong partnerships and national brand recognition that allow us to sell more travel than any other travel site." New site enhancements unveiled included: -- GoodBuy Program: Travelocity's GoodBuy program greatly improves on the already successful Value Program to include a first-of-its-kind, all-in-one set of fare options, more hotel properties and even condominiums. Travelocity is leveraging its customer base to provide negotiated airline fares -- often below published fares. For the first time in the industry, Travelocity puts together in one search path its regular fare search engine, plus two kinds of fares negotiated with the airlines: those that display airlines and schedules, and others that don't immediately reveal the airline or the schedule but offer even more savings. Hotel and condominium GoodBuys offer low rates and availability for Travelocity customers at more than 2,500 properties in more than 125 cities worldwide, even when an entire city may be otherwise "sold out." Through an agreement with Hotel Reservations Network, condominiums will be provided for the first time. -- Travelocity's Preferred Traveler Program: Travelocity introduces a travel club, designed with the online traveler in mind, which will bring members insider access to special benefits such as airfare specials, dining discounts, hotel upgrades, airline club lounge passes, exclusive concierge services and more. This fee-based program will also offer exclusive savings, superior service, and enhanced travel experiences that only Travelocity can access through its extensive network of travel partners and suppliers. Travelocity's Preferred Traveler Program enhances membership in Travelocity and helps members make the most of their travels. -- Travelocity Vacations: Travelocity builds on its own national brand with Travelocity Vacations, creating a true national vacation brand, which allows online travelers the flexibility to build and book their own online vacation packages to more than 800 destinations. Previously, members could build a vacation by piecing together air, car and hotel separately, and they still can. But because Travelocity Vacations can leverage its relationships with air, car and hotel suppliers, members can assemble their own vacation packages -- at lower, package rates. Travelocity Vacations offers more user choices than any other vacation package vendor, including: more origin getaways, better schedules, last minute availability, specials, deals and Travelocity Rewards through the Travelocity.com World MasterCard. Members can choose their preferred airline and car rental companies with their desired hotel package, plus they have the ability to add on theme park tickets, sightseeing tours and other amenities. -- Option Finder: Option Finder includes two enhancements to Travelocity's industry-leading flight search technology. While searching for flights on Travelocity, members will have the option of choosing a mileage radius around their preferred departure airport. The alternate cities feature searches for any available savings based on radiuses of 25, 50, 75 and 100 miles. Additionally, while members are shopping for travel on a specific set of dates, Travelocity will automatically look at a range of dates near the customer's specific choice to see if low fare alternatives are available. If lower fares are found in the search, Travelocity will display the savings, the airlines offering the savings and a calendar for members to see when the dates of the savings are offered. -- Travelocity.com World MasterCard: With the introduction of the Travelocity.com World MasterCard, the days of blackout dates and inflexible rules when redeeming reward travel with credit card points are finally over. So are the days of spending weeks transferring credit card points to airlines, hotel chains and car rental companies. Unlike other travel credit card reward programs, the Travelocity credit card enables cardholders to earn Travelocity Rewards, points redeemable for travel products available on Travelocity, no matter when the date of travel or destination . Travelocity Rewards are redeemable online 24 hours-a-day, seven days-a-week, with no advance purchase rules, for all scheduled airlines on the site, more than 50,000 hotels and more than 50 car rental companies.

In addition to those five exciting new features, Travelocity also announced five new products "to grow on." These include: 1) A new, improved site design, with better navigation and numerous new features; 2) Bon Voyage Email, with great deals for travelers who have already booked and are headed to 40 destinations; 3) Travelocity Store enhancements with amenities for the well-traveled; 4) new customer service technology that greatly enhances the customer experience; and 5) Mobile FareWatcher, so on-the-go members don't miss a sale to their favorite destinations.

DULLES, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Oct. 16, 2001

AOL 7.0 Opens the Internet's Next Chapter with Breakthrough Radio@AOL and AOL Box Office Features Plus Easy Access to the Best Broadband Content

Unprecedented Marketing Campaign for 7.0 to Include AOL Time Warner Assets With Extensive Online and Retail Promotions, New TV Ads and New Wired in a Week Guide

America Online, Inc., the world's leading interactive services company, today announced the launch of its new version, AOL 7.0, which integrates local programming into every part of the service, provides easy access to high-speed audio and video content, and introduces breakthrough music and entertainment features to extend AOL's hallmark convenience and ease-of-use.

This new version of the AOL service is available as an upgrade for existing members at no additional charge in the United States and Puerto Rico with localized versions for AOL's international markets in the near future.

Built to respond to extensive consumer research and member feedback, AOL 7.0 offers:

-- A fresh new look that puts local, community-focused features, shopping and resources front and center throughout the service to make AOL an even more relevant and valuable part of members' daily lives;

-- Two new breakthrough features: Radio@AOL -- the first built-in radio service designed to make it easy for mass-market consumers to access their favorite music online -- and AOL Box Office -- offering one-stop access to tickets for events of every kind;

-- Enhancements to the most popular features of AOL -- including e-mail, instant messaging and the Buddy List(R) feature, My Calendar, and the AOL Media

Player -- all aimed at making AOL even faster, more reliable, and easier to use than ever before;

-- An upgraded version of the popular "You've Got Pictures"SM service that allows members to upload pictures directly from any digital camera or scanners for one-stop viewing, sharing, storing and printing, and offers free, unlimited photo storage space and a bundled pricing plan for both prints and online photos;

-- One-click access to the Internet's best selection of high-speed audio and video content threaded through AOL's Entertainment, Music, News, and Sports channels;

-- Increased member services support including a new Help button on the AOL toolbar, providing advanced online help features to complement AOL's free 24-hour live customer service network; and

-- A new "Goodbye" screen that provides information on TV shows that evening, new movie releases and other events, along with exclusive offers from AOL and its leading partners, as members sign off the service.

Listening to Consumers

Barry Schuler, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of AOL, said:

"AOL 7.0 is at the center of a range of AOL initiatives that will open the next chapter of the Internet. We're building on our strong, engaged relationships with more than 31 million members worldwide to lead the transformation of new categories like music, entertainment, local, and digital photography -- with more on the way as broadband and AOL Anywhere create new opportunities like home networking. We've designed this upgrade to both reflect the way consumers are using the medium today and give them new ways to get even more value from it."

Jonathan Sacks, President of AOL, said: "AOL is all about consumers -- we listen to what our members want and build the service around the way they live their lives. By adding new features, providing enhancements to the features that our members have known and loved for years, and retooling the AOL software 'under the hood' to make the service work more smoothly and easily, AOL 7.0 is the best online experience ever. Increasingly, our members don't distinguish between their online life and their life -- neither do we."

Unprecedented Marketing Campaign Includes Range of AOL Time Warner Assets

The launch of AOL 7.0 will be the focal point of a multi-faceted marketing campaign, aimed at gaining both new members and introducing current members to the upgrade. Among the elements of this campaign will be:

- An unprecedented drive to distribute software disks in more than 30,000 retail outlets through Time Distribution Services and other AOL partnerships. Disks will be available in more than 85 national and retail chains such as supermarkets, department stores, and others, including such national leaders as Barnes & Noble, BLOCKBUSTER(R), CVS, Circuit City, CompUSA, Gateway, Kinko's, Kroger, Office Depot, Sears, Spencer Gifts, Target(R), Wal-Mart, and Winn-Dixie;
- A multi-million dollar print and television campaign, highlighting the new version's increased convenience and relevance to consumers' lives as well as AOL's industry-leading privacy, safety and security protections, which features real AOL members talking about how AOL has made their lives more convenient;
- Distribution of millions of AOL disks through direct marketing efforts including inserts into such Time Inc. magazines as People, Sports Illustrated, Entertainment Weekly, and more;
- A special online sweepstakes that begins today for both new members and current members who upgrade to AOL 7.0 with a chance to win a trip to see the New Zealand premiere of the highly anticipated first installment of New Line Cinema's upcoming epic adventure trilogy, The Lord of the Rings; and
- The upcoming release of an all-new edition of the Wired in a Week guidebook for new Internet consumers, written by AOL Online Advisor Regina Lewis and published by Warner Books.

Joe Redling, President of Marketing for AOL, said: "The ability to draw on the audiences, subscription relationships, and distribution networks provided by the various AOL Time Warner brands gives a whole new dimension to our marketing efforts. Between those efforts and our phenomenal retail partnerships, we're able to reach consumers through a wider variety of platforms in the most efficient way possible, which should make this our most successful launch ever. Our goal is for consumers to know that they can find us easily wherever they are, whatever they're doing."

The Best Localized Content & Features to Manage Daily Life

AOL 7.0 is designed to bring local content front and center throughout the service, reflecting the growing demand for information that's relevant in consumers' own communities as the online medium becomes more and more important to them as a necessary tool to help manage their daily lives.

The AOL Welcome Screen now features local weather, news headlines, sports, headlines, movies, dining and weekend guides automatically personalized for each member's hometown, from the more than 30,000 cities and states covered by AOL's local programming. Relevant local information and commerce opportunities are highlighted across AOL channels including Entertainment, Travel, Health, House & Home, Shopping, Autos, News and Parenting.

The new AOL Box Office with Ticketmaster, another part of AOL 7.0's emphasis on local information, is a one-stop service offering consumers online access to Ticketmaster's extensive inventory of local entertainment events. Covering more than 60 cities across the country, AOL Box Office with Ticketmaster offers people easy and convenient ticket purchasing opportunities for concerts, performing arts, sports, movies, and family events. AOL Box Office lists thousands of featured events from Ticketmaster and tickets from more than 8,000 movie screens nationwide through Moviefone, as well as exclusive pre-sales for premier events such as Madonna's Drowned World Tour and Britney Spears' 2001 Tour.

The service's emphasis on localization reflects surging demand for information that is relevant and useful for entertainment planning, shopping, staying informed, and organizing everyday life. According to the 2001 America Online/Roper Starch Cyberstudy, consumers are interested in activities like checking weather (59% of all Internet consumers) and getting driving directions or maps (72%).

Katherine Borsechnik, President, AOL Brand Management and Programming, said: "For years, AOL has been shaping the evolution and emergence of the 'local Web' to what it is today, and has been instrumental in helping people make important decisions and plans in their daily lives - while also transforming e-commerce and how businesses reach consumers online. With local content threaded through every part of the service, AOL 7.0 takes those efforts to the next level of convenience for consumers and businesses alike."

Enhancements to AOL's Most Popular Features

AOL 7.0 includes many enhancements to the popular features members are already using more than an hour a day, including:

- Enhanced e-mail that indicates whether recipients in an e-mail message are currently online, along with a one-click way for members to add new Screen Names to their Address Book and Buddy List;

- New instant message & Buddy List feature updates include the ability for members to quickly expand an instant message conversation with one person into a chat with multiple friends. Members can also customize their instant messages with more than 80 new Buddy Icon designs including characters and images from Harry Potter, Cartoon Network and Warner Bros. Animation's Looney Tunes;

- A new look and feel for Shop@AOL to make it even easier for members to search for and purchase goods and services. The new design highlights AOL's 100% shopping satisfaction guarantee for Shop@AOL purchases (see AOL Keyword: Guarantee) and the Quick Checkout "wallet," which sets the standard for online payment systems in both efficiency and security - to make shopping easy, safe and secure for all members;

- The new AOL Media Player, offering support for playback of members' own CDs in addition to nearly all major audio formats, volume control and the capabilities to load, play, and organize playlists;

- Automatic reminders via e-mail or wireless phone or pager for events noted in My Calendar and a new, comprehensive Event Directory offering a wide selection of local options to help members make plans and stay up-to-date with events taking place in their city;

- The next-generation of the AOL.com Web site, launching in the coming weeks, with an expanded suite of e-mail and other features for members to access while away from home, including the ability for members to view their own Buddy List and send instant messages directly from the Web;

- Graphical smilies in People Connection Chat -- one of the top tested features in beta testing for 7.0;

- A soon-to-be-launched AOL Alerts feature that lets members choose to receive alerts they select about news, live sports scores and daily roundups, stock quotes, weather forecasts and inclement weather updates, and traffic reports either online or on their mobile device or pager; and

- Significant improvements in compatibility with screen readers, an assistive technology primarily used by people with visual impairments that speaks aloud what our sighted members see on the AOL service. A new Keyword: Accessibility provides help for using the AOL software with screen readers, screen magnification, voice recognition and other assistive technologies.

New AOL Broadband Content Throughout Service

AOL 7.0 is designed to provide both dial-up and broadband consumers with an experience that is optimized for their connection speed. For the growing number of consumers adopting high-speed connections, it delivers seamless access to the Internet's best selection of audio and video content, complementing the AOL High-Speed Broadband services.

AOL's broadband services are currently available through DSL nationwide to BellSouth, Qwest, SBC, and Verizon customers, and through satellite wherever dial-up service is available. The AOL High-Speed Broadband service is also currently being rolled out over Time Warner Cable in its 20 largest markets.

AOL's broadband services combine the advantages of a broadband connection -- including instant-on capability and the ability to make the most of online audio and video -- with the convenience and ease-of-use that have made AOL the world's most popular online service.

With these services, consumers sign on to AOL instantly, move between Web sites and download large files quickly, eliminate the need for a second phone line to let family members be online and talk on the telephone at the same time; and begin to enjoy high-speed broadband's capabilities to enable next-generation services such as home networking, interactive gaming and more.

The AOL 7.0 software automatically detects when a member is signed on at high speed, and seamlessly integrates featured content into a "High-Speed AOL" area on the Welcome Screen, AOL channels and sites, replacing the separate "multimedia tower" that was used to display high-speed broadband content in previous versions of the AOL service.

Among the content offerings that this integration puts one click away are:

- News reports and live coverage from CBS News, CNN, and the Weather Channel;
- Sports highlights and more from the NFL, NBA, and NASCAR, as well as CNN SI, HBO Sports, CBS Sportsline, and Turner Sports;
- Music videos, concerts, listening parties, interviews, and more, as well as special features from partners like Rolling Stone.com;
- Movie previews, animated content, short video clips, and entertainment news from HBO, Moviefone, Warner Brothers Online, E!, Cartoon Network and others;
- Business and technology news from CBS Marketwatch and CNET;
- Interactive features and animated cartoons for Kids from Cartoon Network, Kiddonet and Warner Brothers Online; and
- Travel destination guides and previews from Travelocity.

Audrey Weil, President of AOL Broadband, said: "Broadband gives consumers faster connections and always-on convenience, but even more important is the content that comes through those so-called fat pipes. Through our AOL Time Warner assets and hundreds of other content partnerships, we're able to offer AOL members the richest choice of convenient, entertaining, and informative audio and video content anywhere, built right into the easy-to-use service. AOL 7.0 is optimized for any speed, so members don't have to think about how they're connected. They can just focus on what they want to see and hear."

AOL International Takes 7.0 Global

AOL services around the world will also be making the launch of localized versions of AOL 7.0 a centerpiece of marketing efforts to drive membership growth.

-- AOL 7.0 will be available to AOL Canada members via download starting the first week of November at AOL.ca.

-- AOL services in the UK, Argentina, Australia, France, Japan, and Mexico will be launching AOL 7.0 later this year.

-- America Online Brasil and AOL Germany will be launching the software in the coming months.

Availability

AOL members can upgrade to new version AOL 7.0 at AOL Keyword: Upgrade. Others can download the new version at www.aol.com.

LEE ISLAND COAST, Fla., July 27 /CNW/ -- The Lee Island Coast Visitor and Convention Bureau (VCB) announces the launch of its newly enhanced Web site -- www.leeislandcoast.com. It features a fresh and fun look at travel and destination information about southwest Florida's most unique coastal vacation spot, the Fort Myers/Sanibel Island area. The Web site's design allows consumers to instantly access details about attractions, accommodations, and travel reservations. It helps visitors plan every aspect of their trip to the area, and also features Internet discount offers. The VCB also enlisted six travel writers to provide over 20 additional pages of new and informative editorial to the site.

Suitable for every traveler's needs, the Web site includes many other pages allowing the viewer to plan a complete vacation to paradise. Web site features include everything you want to know about the areas comprising the Lee Island Coast: Sanibel & Captiva islands, Fort Myers Beach, Fort Myers, Cape Coral, Bonita Springs & Estero, Pine Island & Boca Grande, Lehigh Acres, and North Fort Myers.

The site allows travelers to select a destination with relevant background information, obtain the current temperature for the area, view 360 degree IPIX images, scan an updated list of events and activities of interest in the area, send postcards to friends and family, link with MapQuest for maps to and from hotels, restaurants and attractions, and receive copies of comprehensive visitor information.

Vacation Planning

Always on the leading edge in the tourism industry, www.leeislandcoast.com offers consumers a way to customize and personalize their vacation plans. One of the site tools is the ability to create a personal vacation itinerary file complete with activities before ever reserving a room. With over 300 accommodations and attractions from which to choose, visitors can create a customized itinerary that includes all of their vacation plans and print it, or e-mail it to a family member.

Search Engine

In addition to the impressive amount of content now on the site, the VCB has made it easier for visitors to find the information they need. They have added an internal search engine that makes the site very user friendly. This feature allows visitors to search by key word within the site for anything they'd need to know about vacationing on the Lee Island Coast.

Sweepstakes

To launch the newly designed site, the VCB is conducting a sweepstakes contest called "Hotlink to Paradise," which gives visitors the chance to win a tropical paradise vacation package. Visitors to the site simply complete and submit the entry form on the online guest book and are automatically entered for a chance to win a one-week grand prize vacation package for a family of four, or one of eight other fantastic getaways, to one of the country's most exclusive vacation spots.

The grand prize features a seven-day, six-night stay for a family of four at South Seas Resort on Captiva Island. The island offers miles of pristine beach, wildlife, kayaking, sailing, golfing, shelling and fishing. The winner will receive four tickets on Delta Air Lines from Delta Vacations; a $1,000 shopping spree at Tanger Factory Stores Sanibel with over 55 brand name outlets; a three-piece set of Samsonite/American Tourister luggage, and four passes to Barbara B. Mann Performing Arts Hall.

Media Central and Travel Agent Help Desk

Other highlighted Web site features include a Media Central and Travel Agent Help Desk. Media Central is the on-line news center for journalists, offering immediate access to comprehensive information and story ideas for the Lee Island Coast travel destination. Media Central contains all media material such as fact sheets, media kits and news releases. It allows reporters 24-hour, seven-day-a-week access to all of Lee Island Coast's media materials.

Media Central also simplifies information retrieval for all media by offering a convenient keyword/topic search, research assistance, on-line image samples and information on downloading high-resolution photos and on-line video samples of high-quality B-roll.

The Lee Island Coast also includes tools for travel agents. The Travel Agent Help Desk offers personalized service from an experienced staff person to answer questions. Acting as a support service for the trade industry, informative descriptions aid and teach the travel agent everything about the destination a client could desire to know. The new VCB site also offers extensive information to help Meeting Planners and Sports Organizers.

Overall, the interactive nature and beautiful layout of the Web site illustrate the tropical island paradise of the Lee Island Coast. Located on the Gulf of Mexico, the Lee Island Coast offers a relaxed environment for both business and pleasure vacations.
